COVID-19 vaccination advice if you have an underlying health condition

Why get vaccinated?

If you have an underlying health condition you're strongly encouraged to get vaccinated because if you get COVID-19, you're at higher risk of getting seriously ill, ending up in hospital, and possibly dying.

An underlying health condition includes but isn't limited to the following:

- serious respiratory disease, including chronic lung disease and severe asthma
- a serious heart condition
- immunocompromised conditions
- hypertension (high blood pressure)
- diabetes
- chronic kidney disease
- liver disease
- stroke
- cancer.

Is it safe to get vaccinated?

If you have an underlying health condition, it is safe for you to get the free COVID-19 vaccination. New Zealand's main vaccine is the Pfizer vaccine and this has been thoroughly assessed for safety for people with underlying health conditions.

Once you are fully vaccinated, you are far less likely to fall seriously ill and less likely to transmit the virus to others.

Severely immunocompromised people

Some people who are severely immunocompromised are eligible to get a third primary dose of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine. This extra dose will help give you the best possible protection.

You can have the third primary dose at least 8 weeks after your second dose.

Your specialist or doctor can tell you whether you are eligible for this third primary dose.

AstraZeneca vaccine

Pfizer is the preferred COVID-19 vaccine for use in New Zealand. However, from 26 November, you can select the AstraZeneca vaccine if you are aged 18 years and older and you want a different option. Both the Pfizer and AstraZeneca vaccines are free and will protect you against the symptoms of COVID-19.

Talk to your specialist or doctor

If you have any concerns about getting your COVID-19 vaccination, please talk to your specialist or doctor.

Get your free COVID-19 booster dose

A booster dose is recommended after 6 months

Your first two doses of the COVID-19 vaccine will continue to help protect you from getting seriously ill, being hospitalised and possibly dying.

By having a booster dose you increase your protection from COVID-19 and are less likely to pass this on to others.

Get your free COVID-19 booster dose from 29 November

It's important to get a booster dose to remain protected against COVID-19.

The protection from COVID-19 provided by vaccination reduces over time, particularly from 6 months after your second dose. A free booster dose can improve this protection and is highly recommended.

If you had your second COVID-19 vaccination more than 6 months ago, you are eligible for a booster.

From Monday 29 November onwards, you can just walk in to any vaccination centre for your booster dose.
